MATTHEW – CHICAGO

When I was 9 years old, I fell from a tree and my teeth sustained severe damage from the impact. My mother had passed and my father was abusive, neglectful and an alcoholic. It was easy to hide, even though I was in intense pain and afraid to tell him. I stopped brushing, at first due to the pain and then because I had no parental guidance in my life. My life fell into turmoil; I started smoking, drinking and doing drugs (mainly weed, cocaine and crack) at an early age, which just made my teeth worse. I have always worked in the customer service industry, which means I must talk to people. I have chosen to hide my teeth by always looking down when talking, smiling or laughing. By always looking down this has caused me to have very low self-esteem and a poor outlook on my image and life in general. I am now 38 and I have never had a girlfriend and have accepted I never will. I don't go out, go to parties, socialize or like meeting new people for the embarrassment I feel about my teeth is to overwhelming. I have stopped doing all drugs and drinking but struggle to quit cigarettes. I am certain that with a new smile, I would have the motivation to quit smoking permanently. I am also certain that my self-esteem would greatly improve and that would change my world and give me hope.

LINDSAY - CHICAGO

For the first part of my adult life, I lived what I thought to be the “rock n’ roll” lifestyle. I made one poor decision after another. Everything in my life, including myself, was nearly destroyed. Over the past two and a half years, I have repaired almost all of it. The one thing I cannot repair on my own, though, is my smile. I now live what I know is truly a “rock n’ roll” lifestyle. I am clean and sober and loving life! I have a great job, great family and friends, who all look past my teeth and see me. I would like to go back to school to become a drug counselor. It’s hard for people to take me seriously, though, with the way my teeth are. In 2001, I was attacked by two men who strangled me, slit my throat, and left me for dead. They didn’t win-I did! Please help me win, once again, and be able to share my experiences with others. PLEASE, HELP ROCK MY SMILE!!!!

NICOLE – SCHAUMBURG

My name is Nicollette Riefler, I am 25 years old and work at a sports bar. I am very outgoing and love to meet new people, which I am constantly doing in my line of work. The problem is I'm always stressed out when I meet people because I am very self-conscious about my rotting teeth, especially being in the front of my mouth. I never know what a customer will think or possibly say. You'd think being adults people would keep rude comments to themselves but unfortunately I've been made fun of too my face and it's a feeling I wouldn't wish upon anyone. I can't even remember the last time I smiled freely, with absolutely no fear. I think this opportunity is wonderful and love that people with talent and resources do good for people less fortunate. Makes me think of the movie Pay It Forward, one person does a good deed and it goes on and on from there. If I am chosen my mom and I would be so grateful. I say my mom and I because it's always been the two of us and I can see the sadness in her eyes when I smile. The guilt she lives with because she doesn't have the resources to help me out. The two photos I am most looking forward to are the before and after photos. Please help me rock my smile! To me this could be the miracle I have been praying for!
